Of The DayERA OF

IN the next month or so Premiers and Heads of State will either achieve a new era of friendship and hope between East and West or else a worsening of the cold war which has plagued the world for too long.

Mr Macmillan began the first round last February and now President Eisenhower continues it. He has already seen Dr Adenauer, General de Gaulle and Mr Macmillan in an effort to achieve a greater understanding among the leaders of the Western alliance preparatory to receiving Mr Khrushchev in the middle of the month.

While it is unprecedented for an American President to fly back and forth for private talks with statesmen of other countries it emphasizes the crucial need for strong leadership which can only be brought home by Heads of State.

Grave Issues

THREE are grave issues at stake and it all depends on whether Mr Eisenhower and his allies can reach some accommodation with the Soviet Premier and his partners in the East.

Mr Eisenhower has risen to the occasion and judging from the tumultuous welcome he received in Britain he has the backing of the British people in his endeavours to find a solution to major world problems.

The task is not easy and like Mr Macmillan, the President will find one of his hardest tasks in calming the suspicions of his allies. The French are in a highly emotional state and it was only two weeks ago that M. Debre said that France was in danger of being crushed between the United States and Russia.

Criticised

THE British Press criticised this unfortunate speech and—there followed the ludicrous claim that the British Government was waging a war against France. Nothing could have been further from the truth as it is far too well known that the British Press does not accept directions from the Government.

M. Debre's speech followed reports that President de Gaulle hinted that France might leave Nato and seek friends elsewhere.

The French suggestion that they might break up the North Atlantic Alliance and form an independent bloc with Germany has got Mr Adenauer worried.

No Sacrifice

STRONG though his desire for Franco-German friendship is, he is not prepared to sacrifice the United States as an ally in favour of France, and for that he cannot be blamed. There were some of the complex problems that faced President Eisenhower during his recent visits to Bonn and Paris but Mr Khrushchev will be well advised not to take any comfort or consolation from allied differences. These are constantly arising but they are also resolved. It is, however, to be hoped that when the West meets the East it will be with a united front.

The man who attempted to rob the flat of film actress, Miss Lin Dai, was sentenced to five years' imprisonment at Kowloon District Court this morning.

Wong Sze-hon, 46, unemployed, pleaded guilty to the two charges of attempted robbery and possession of arms with ammunition before Judge A. A. Huggins.

India Will Take Back
Posts From Chinese

Washington, Sept. 6.

Mr. M. C. Chagia, the Indian Ambassador to the United States, said in a televised interview today that "we are going to take back the posts that the Chinese have occupied on India's northeast frontier."

The Ambassador declared that the number of Indian posts occupied was less important than the fact that the Chinese had challenged India's integrity.

"We will not put up with any nation committing aggression, however small or petty that aggression is," he observed.

INDIAN TROOPS

Mr Chagia at first stated that Indian army troops were moving one position.

Asked if India would permit the other positions to be occupied, he replied that Indian troops would "take back the posts that the Chinese have occupied," and added: "We have no objection to fighting Communists."

After some hesitation, Miss Lin said defendant into a room accompanied by her mother.

On entering the room, defendant took out a revolver from a briefcase he was carrying all the time and pointed it at Miss Lin.

FRIGHTENED

Frightened, Miss Lin asked him what he wanted. Defendant bluntly replied he wanted money.

NOT SERIOUS

Asked if India would take the matter to the United Nations, he replied, "The question has not arisen, and I think will never arise. At present the threat is not serious. It is not mince any words about it. But we cannot call it an invasion or a situation where we need to appeal to the United Nations or to any other country for help. 'Don't forget we have 1,000 armed and force with fine resolutions. I think they will look after our frontiers. And I am sure that China will not be so foolish as to attack India with such force as will compel us to appeal to the United Nations or to another country."

He said that India was following a dual policy of "not permitting a single foreign soldier to stay on our soil, but believing in peace and negotiation and continuing to negotiate with China." —Reuter.

Nairobi, Sept. 6. Sir Evelyn Barlow, Governor of Kenya, today saved the life of an Indian girl drowning off Malindi, 50 miles north of Mombasa and almost lost his own life in the attempt.

A second girl was drowned.

Sir Evelyn, 56, who leaves Kenya in a fortnight after seven years as Governor, was spending a quiet day at Malindi during his farewell tour of the coast.

As he relaxed on a deserted beach near Casuarina Point a frantic Indian girl dashed up to him, begging him to help save her two friends.

Boundering in rough water 150 yards out, Sir Evelyn at once plunged into the sea and despite heavy surf and strong currents reached the girls who were in great distress, barely keeping their heads above water.

Holding both firmly he struck out for shore but found it heavy going with the girls struggling.

He lost his grip on one and was unable to recover her. She went under and out of his sight.

Within 20 yards offshore with the other girl he was overcome by exhaustion and began

Tourist
Claims
She Was Slapped

An Australian woman tourist said this morning that she was slapped by a woman at a popular Colony restaurant last night.

Chief Inspector T. Wheeler assisted by Divisional Detective Inspector T. E. Monnington conducted the prosecution.

Outlining the case, Inspector Wheeler told the court that at 9.30 a.m. on August 20, Wong went to 40A Kadoorie Avenue, fifth floor to call on Miss Lin but was told to come later.

RETURNED

Defendant returned at 12.30 p.m., producing two visiting cards one bearing his own name while the other bearing that of Wong Sze-cheung, manager of a film company in Taiwan.

Defendant was then taken to the parlour where he had a short interview with her on his arrival.

Next the defendant said he had some important message for her and would tell her in a quieter environment such as next room.

After some hesitation, Miss Lin led defendant into a room accompanied by her mother.

The police are continuing investigations this morning.

Miss Futoma who arrived last Saturday week with the intention of buying a night-club in Hongkong had visited the restaurant three times in the last week. Late last night she asked a musician to play La Cumparsita.

"He said, 'you better say please,'" Mrs Futoma continued. "Then I said 'you are not here to teach people how to speak.'"

Mrs Futoma claimed that a woman later slapped her on the face in the presence of many guests.

TREATED

Mrs Futoma said she reported the incident to the police and had been treated "in hospital."

Witnesses of the Registry ceremony were Mr Kwok Chan and the groom's brother, Mr Kam Kwong-yan.

More than 2,000 guests have been invited to the reception which will be held this afternoon at the Peninsula Hotel.

REVOLVER TAKEN FROM POLICEMAN IS RECOVERED

A police constable was assaulted and robbed of his service revolver by two men in Berwick Street, Shamshuipo at about 3.55 a.m. today. Government spokesman said this morning.

The policeman was taken to Kowloon Hospital for treatment but was not detained.

Immediate police inquiries resulted in the arrest of three Chinese and the recovery of the revolver.

London, Sept. 6.

A London research worker said today she had discovered a man filling 115 voluntary jobs at the same time.

Mrs Ruth Glass, Director of Research at the London University College Centre for Urban Studies, said "Mr Busy's" name must remain a secret since replies to her questionnaire were confidential.

"The survey (of local government councils in Great Britain) isn't complete yet," Mrs Glass said, "but I don't think we'll find anyone to beat this total." —U.P.T.

The army chief of staff, Gen. Ouan Athukone, said last night that bitter fighting was raging in Phongsaly Province, the northern-most Lao province which borders China and North Vietnam.

Gen. Ouan said one of his army's greatest needs was helicopters to communicate with remote outposts. He said in Phongsaly Province, for example, there are airstrips and roads, but no airstrip and roads by horseback.

Meanwhile, the government flew in a group of black Thai prisoners captured in the north.

In Phongsaly, inhabited by eight different racial tribes, the Communists have occupied at least 40 villages.

SKIRMISHES

The fate of two Lao companies in the provinces was still unknown, Gen. Ouan said. He said they engaged Red troops last Thursday and have not been heard from since.

Scattered skirmishes were reported continuing in Sam Neua Province but, contrary to earlier reports, no large-scale battles had taken place in the area. The Communists still control the river in Sam Neua and can probably maintain their position for a long time, the Chief of Staff said.

However, the Lao Government has not produced a single Vietnamese prisoner or any other concrete evidence of Vietnamese involvement. —UPI

The Foreign Minister, Mr. Khamphanh Fany, flew to the United States yesterday to press Laos' request for United Nations military intervention.

His mission is expected to eventually result in the United Nations rather than the Southeast Asia Treaty Organization taking a hand in the Laos situation.

Rex Harrison Kept
Kay Kendall's Illness
Secret To The Last

Kay Kendall, a beautiful, bad-luck actress who lived all her life in the public eye, died today after a battle she kept private even from her close friends.

It was leukemia that killed Miss Kendall, the witty and dazzling actress wife of "My Fair Lady's" Rex Harrison who rose to world-wide stardom as the trumpet-playing redhead in the antique car comedy, "Gentleman."

Her death shocked even those who knew her best. Through two collapses in four months, through two bouts of hospitalization, through intense speculation in Britain on "What's wrong with Kay Kendall?" Miss Kendall and

British Broadcasting Corporation, quoting the bulletin, said for the first time she was "seriously ill at 1 p.m. today, more than 2 minutes after Miss Kendall died."

She died at the London clinic, which she entered for a "checkup" eight days ago.

It was the same clinic who entered in June when she collapsed on the Park set of "Once More With Feeling," a movie in which she co-starred with Yul Brynner.

One of the doctors called at that time was a blood specialist. Even among her closest friends, his services were brushed off as being of a consultative nature about her anemia.

Miss Kendall went back to finish the movie, although she complained of being "very tired." Harrison, who left the cast of "My Fair Lady" soon afterward, took her to Portofino, Italy, for a rest. He brought her back to the London hospital on Aug. 30.—UPI.

He Knew
3 Years Ago

London, Sept. 6. British actor Rex Harrison knew his actress wife Kay Kendall was suffering from fatal disease — leukemia — before he married her three years ago but kept the information from her until she was dying, it was learned here on Sunday night.

A New York doctor had told Harrison that Kay would probably die before the end of summer 1958.

But he swore to keep the secret and none outside the actress' doctors knew until the end.

Kay Kendall died on Sunday at the age of 32—UPI.

LORD ROWALLAN

London, Sept. 6. The youngest son of Gov. Nelson Rockefeller of New York was arrested for speeding on the Maine turnpike, it was disclosed today.

Michael Rockefeller, 20, was stopped yesterday by Trooper Warren Munsey for driving 60 miles per hour. The turnpike limit is 70.

"Any relation to the Rockefellers?" Munsey asked the youth, whom he described as "a very fine young man."

"My father is Governor of New York" was the reply.

Police said the youth, who was travelling alone and driving an foreign sports car, was released on his recognizance for appearance this week at Municipal Court here.—UPI.

THE RICH
COMMIT
SUICIDES

Cincinnati, Ohio, Sept. 6. Rich people commit suicide more often than the poor, a report by two Los Angeles psychologists said here on Saturday.

The report, given at the American Psychological Association Convention here, was the result of a study of suicide in Los Angeles county during 1957.

Drs Edwin S. Schreiman and Norman L. Farbrow, both of the Veterans Administration Center in Los Angeles, studied everything from the home life of suicide victim to their notes left behind.

Most wealthy people who committed suicide said in notes that they were "bored" and "tired of life," the report said.

Very few wealthy people living in homes instead of apartments gave health as a reason for suicide, while many living in expensive apartments listed poor health as the reason.—UPI.

£500 LEFT TO DR ADAMS

London, Sept. 6.
Dr John Bodkin Adams, aged 59, who was found not guilty at the Old Bailey in 1957 of murdering a woman, has been left £500 by a patient, Miss Annie Melville.

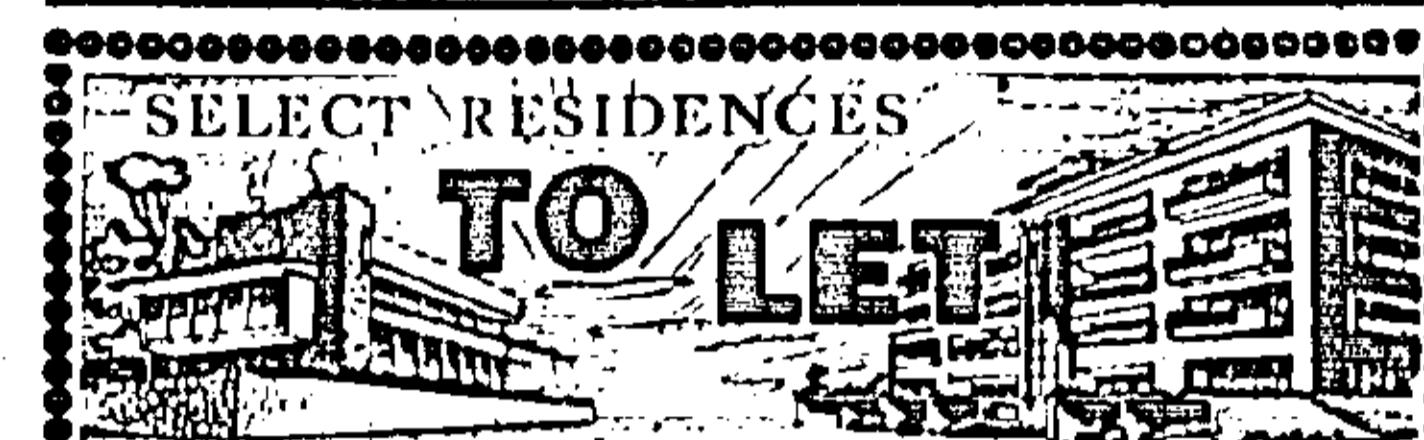

This was disclosed with the publication yesterday of the will of Miss Melville who died in June, aged 90.

Her £91,000 will was made in 1956, the year before Dr Adams faced the charge concerning Mrs Edith Morrell.

Dr Adams told reporters: "It is the very first time I have heard of it—a complete surprise."

"Miss Melville was a patient of mine years ago—I forgot how many."—China Mail Special.

LAOS: More Danger Than Quemoy

Washington, Sept. 6.
The American State Department views the Laos crisis as a greater danger to international peace than the Chinese-Communist threat to invade Quemoy last year.

Laos is considered a "softer" target than the Quemoy Islands.

The Laotian army is not as well equipped and is not as experienced in combat as Chiang Kai-shek's forces. It did not have the same high calibre of leadership and it is opposing rebel forces on its borders which, for political and military reasons, is difficult to defend.

American officials feel that, while a Chinese Communist success at Quemoy last year would have been a severe political blow, a Communist take-over in Laos would be a military disaster because of the vital position of Laos in defence planning for Southeast Asia.

A sharply-worded State Department statement yesterday directly accused the Soviet Union, China and North Vietnam of organizing and directing a rebellion to overthrow the Laotian Government by force of arms.

Because of the difficulty of proving external aggression, it was thought likely that the U.S. delegation would limit its final move to supporting a resolution for the immediate dispatch of observers to Laos to study the situation. The U.S., according to officials, was prepared to go further and support the dispatch of an emergency force if this became necessary.—UPI.

Mrs K To Wear Imported Clothes To U.S.

Moscow, Sept. 6.
Mrs Nikita Khrushchev may make her American debut wearing an international outfit—an English wool suit and an American handbag.

American Magazine To Explain U.S. Life

Washington, Sept. 6.

The United States announced plans today to begin distributing a bi-monthly magazine throughout the Middle East to tell Arabic readers about American life.

Americans will find Mr Khrushchev's wife a pleasant, grandmotherly woman who speaks English.

Born In Ukraine

Mrs Khrushchev was born in the Ukraine and was taught English at school. Thus she was able to chat in English with Vice-President Nixon when they were seated next to each other at a dinner the residence of U.S. Ambassador Lowell Thompson.

Mrs Khrushchev has been a member of the Communist Party since she was a young girl and worked actively during the civil war.

The Premier's wife usually chats about her five children and is an amateur gardener, according to the distant side of Moscow diplomatic circles.

Wives of diplomatic corps members who have spoken to her describe her as "sweet and as pleasant as can be."

Her appearances in the United States, accompanied by hundreds of reporters and photographers, may prove startling as much as not used to the limelight.—UPI.

CHILDREN'S PUNISHMENT

Kuala Lumpur, Sept. 6.
Some Malaysian parents rubbed red-hot chillies in their children's eyes to punish them, according to a survey conducted by the Social Welfare Department.

Other punishments included thrashing with belts, punching and tying children to posts with ropes.

The report said that although the punishments reflected sadism and mental irritation they were inflicted "without malice or hatred."—Reuters.

CHOU CALLS FOR VIGILANCE

Peking, Sept. 6.

Mr Chou En-lai, the Prime Minister, tonight called for "vigilance," saying that "the imperialists were stepping up the creation of tension in the Far East."

Mr Chou who was speaking at a banquet in honour of the visiting Foreign Minister of Afghanistan, Sardar Mohammad Naim, also accused imperialists of "sowing discord in the real relations among Asian and African countries."

Mr Chou did not mention India or Laos but some observers said they thought his remarks could be interpreted as referring to foreign claims that Chinese influence was behind present troubles in Laos and to criticisms of China over frontier incidents with India.—Reuters.

PLAYED GOLF

Most of the discussion was devoted to describing British party policy.

Both hailed the forthcoming Eisenhower-Khrushchev meetings as an excellent thing. We hope and believe they will clear the atmosphere. But the real value would be if they resulted in concrete and practical agreement," Mr Galtisell said.

Mr Bevan told Russian viewers: "We share the apprehensions of the Soviet people about the rearming of West Germany, but we consider that this question cannot be settled in isolation."

The President was partnered by Mr Whitney, and opposed by two friends.

The President and Mr Whitney finished all square with their opponents.—UPI and Reuter.

The President missed lunch on returning from church today for the sake of a game of golf, his third in three days.

He went round the Turnbury course in 84 strokes compared with 89 and 83 in his previous matches.

New Electronic Eye Will Help Printers

SCIENTISTS at the Wayne Kerr Laboratories, Chessington, Surrey, have designed an instrument which is likely to save the printing industry thousands of tons of ink a year.

The instrument—a highly sensitive "probe" attached to an electronic measuring meter—can tell the depth of holes or marks in materials to within TWO MILLIONTHS of an inch.

When printing is done on gravure plates—many glossy magazines today are printed by this method—each plate has to be examined by microscope to check its smoothness and the depth of impressions on its surface.

Because the microscope could only be focused "by eye," much accuracy was lost.

Using the new probe, the exact depth of holes into which the ink flows can be told, and the plate altered accordingly.

The device can also be used for precise measurement of flaws or fatigue cracks in airplanes, or for telling the depth of cells in human tissue—vital knowledge in certain kinds of medical research.

'Brain valve'

A London hospital has started the first trials in Britain of a device to relieve hydrocephalus—"water in the brain."

The device is a steel and plastic valve, less than a quarter-inch thick, invented by a U.S. engineer whose son suffers from the disorder. It is fitted to open when the pressure of fluid inside the head reaches a certain level.

The World of Science

By Peter Fairley

First "guinea-pig" will be 100 British children. The tests will last for up to four years. Results will be compared with those from a further 100 children who will undergo conventional surgery.

Insects' nerves

Insects literally "live on their nerves." That is the verdict of an American scientist who has been studying the nerve systems of hundreds of them. He found that:

An insect responds suddenly to information picked up by its nerves; that its reaction is impulsive, and not based on thought or experience; that the nerves themselves are very large by comparison with mammals.

In his report, the scientist compares an insect's reaction to that of a fireman, hearing the alarm bell, racing for his engine without knowing if it is a small or a large fire.

Rustlers tote 'drug guns'

Great Falls, Montana. CATTLE rustlers have brought their guns out again in the American West—but it's tranquiliser pellets they're firing now, not bullets.

Rustlers use "tranquillisers guns" to inject cattle with drugs that keep them quiet as they are loaded into trucks.

And ranchers, who in the bad old days called for the sheriff, now send for help from the U.S. Food and Drug Administration.

Washington is sending agents to Montana to investigate.

Senator Gordon Murray, of Montana, received a letter from Art Watson, president of the Montana Cattlemen's Association, who wrote: "The gun-rifles and pistols—shoof! with scarcely any noise, a pellet which contains tranquilisers and other drugs."

Watson warned that the "quiet gun" could also be used for other crimes.

Just Fancy That!

Nottingham. THE Sheriff of Nottingham's house is for sale. Alfreton Hall in Derbyshire, where the Sheriff lived in the 12th Century when Robin Hood was supposed to have roamed Sherwood Forest, went on the market at the inheritance taxes of its late owner, R. C. Palmer-Morwood.

The sale includes more than two thousand acres and 102 tenants' cottages. Tenants are being given first chance at buying their own houses.

The Sheriff lived in Derbyshire because at the time of King John, he ruled both Nottinghamshire and its neighbouring county.

This is PRIVATE LINE... by CHAPMAN PINCHER

and the line opens with a direct talk with the man who flew to Moscow last month

Gaitskell and the BOMB

What his policy really means

TO MARK the birth of Private Line, a China Mail column which will specialise in news of high significance, Mr Hugh Gaitskell, who flew to Moscow last week-end, disclosed for the first time the full implications of the H-bomb policy he proposes to present at the election; what it holds for the British Forces, for Anglo-American relations, and for world peace.

Here are the Labour leader's forthright answers to my questions in a personal talk in Westminster.

WHY do you attack such importance to your non-nuclear club proposal?

BECAUSE if we went to survive we have somehow to stop the nuclear arms race and the spread of nuclear weapons to more and more countries, which is now becoming a very grave danger.

Undermining

BUT are many other countries yet in a position to produce their own nuclear weapons?

YES. At least 12 more countries have the economic and technical capacity to begin doing so now. All these could be producing nuclear weapons within five years. And five years from now probably another eight countries will have this capacity too.

EVEN if other countries do produce nuclear weapons, why is this necessarily dangerous?

FOR three reasons. They will carry out tests which poison the atmosphere and when they do this it will undermine the agreement now being negotiated between America, Russia, and Britain to stop tests.

Secondly, if nuclear weapons get into the hands of less responsible Governments especially if they are not frightened of retaliation, these Governments are much more likely to use them.

And thirdly, if 15 countries once have stocks of A- and H-bombs, which are impossible to detect, it is going to be far more difficult to get all-round disarmament with proper controls, which is the only sure way to peace—and remain our chief objective.

Our offer

ARE YOU proposing that Britain should give up her nuclear weapons unconditionally? If not, under what conditions should we give them up?

NO. We are not proposing unconditional nuclear disarmament. What we are proposing is that the British Government should take a unique position in the third nuclear power to stop the spread of the bomb. Our offer would be this: If all other countries except Russia and America agree not to produce or possess nuclear weapons of their own and accept the international controls necessary to ensure that this agreement was carried out, then we should be prepared to join the movement under the same nuclear weapons. On the other hand, as you know, many experts think that Nato's strategy is at present based too much on nuclear and too little on conventional weapons. From this point of view the British change might be helpful.

—(London Express Service).

I SHOULD not have thought it necessary or desirable for British ships under normal peacetime conditions to carry atomic weapons. In wartime conditions we would take in just the same position as the rest of Nato. But I agree it is essential to clear up the whole question of the collective control of A- and H-bombs within the alliance.

THE SOLE purpose of the Blue Streak rocket now being developed is to provide an H-bomb-carrying missile under independent British control to deter attack in case Britain ever had to stand alone. What would happen to this project under your plan?

IT would have to be scrapped—along with similar projects in other countries which endanger world peace. This, of course, would save the taxpayer a lot of money—about £500 million, I believe.

Aldermaston

WHAT would happen to the nuclear weapons production facilities representing a national investment of hundreds of millions at Aldermaston and elsewhere?

They would be shut down. This would save a lot of money, and incidentally a lot of scientists now employed on military research would be freed for civilian work. The investment will not have been wasted if we use our position in the third nuclear power to get a firm agreement which stops the use of the bombs and so paves the way for all-round disarmament.

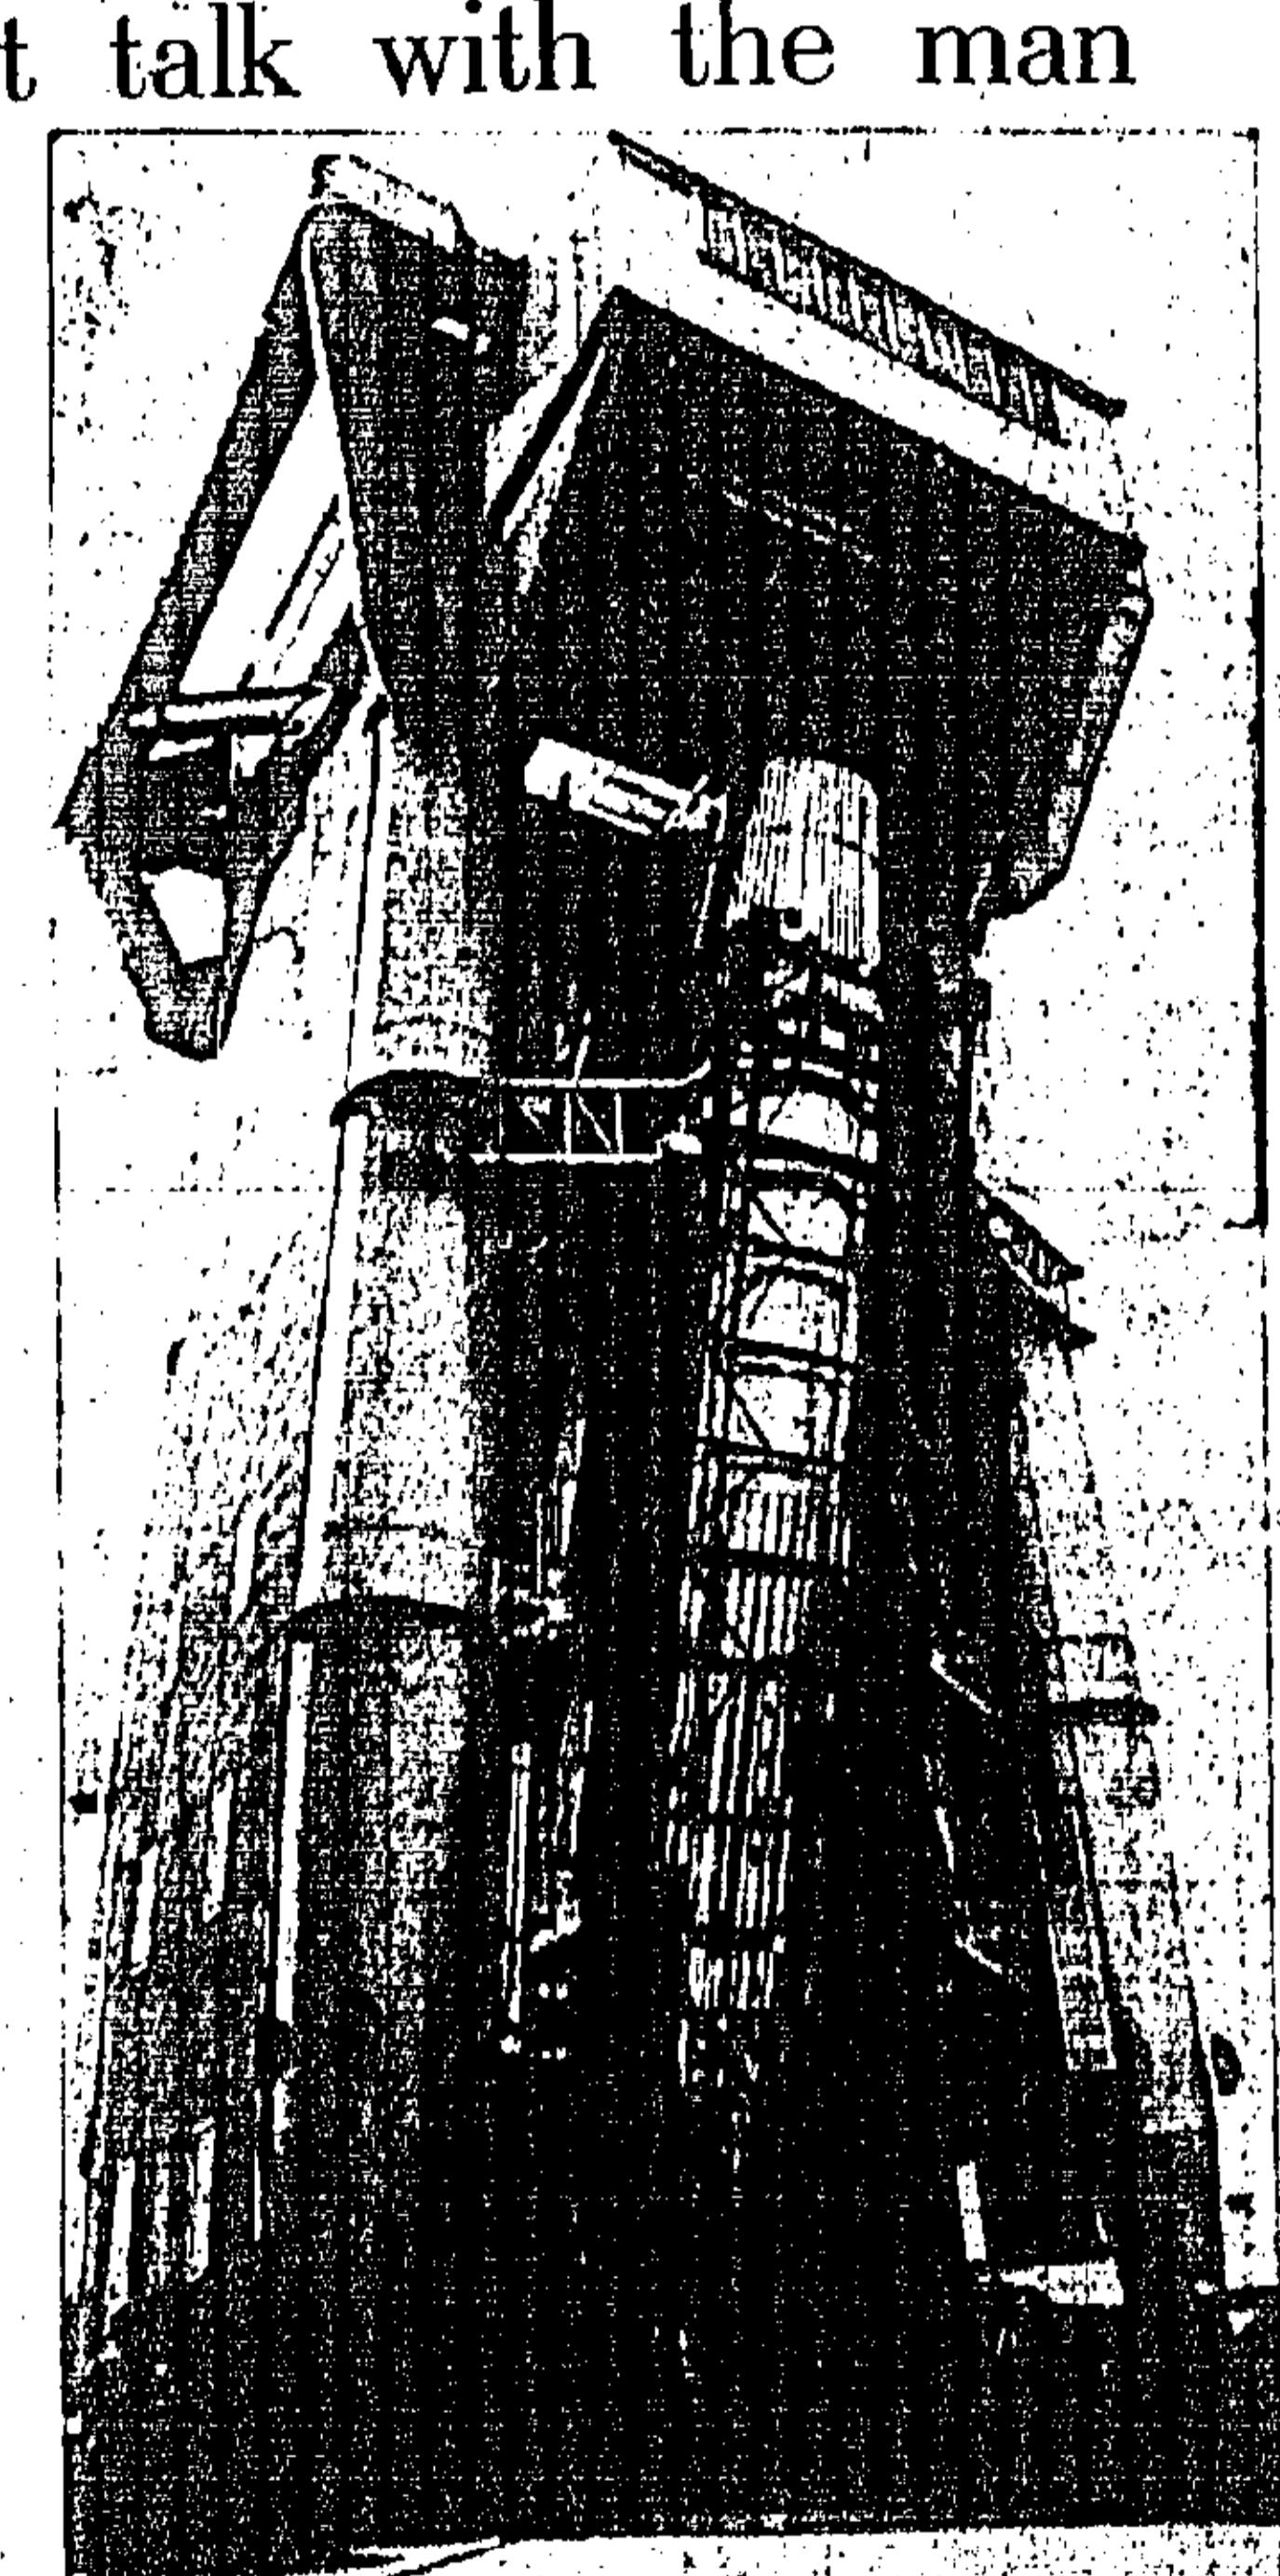

We do not believe the international situation justifies the collective effort of having bombers flying with nuclear weapons on board. But in so far as it is part of Nato strategy for British Forces to be included among those trained to use nuclear weapons, the answer to your question is Yes. To a very considerable extent that is, of course, already the position today.

As for those who say it can't be done, I remind them that two years ago we were told an agreement to stop tests was impossible.

We pushed for it—and it is on the way.

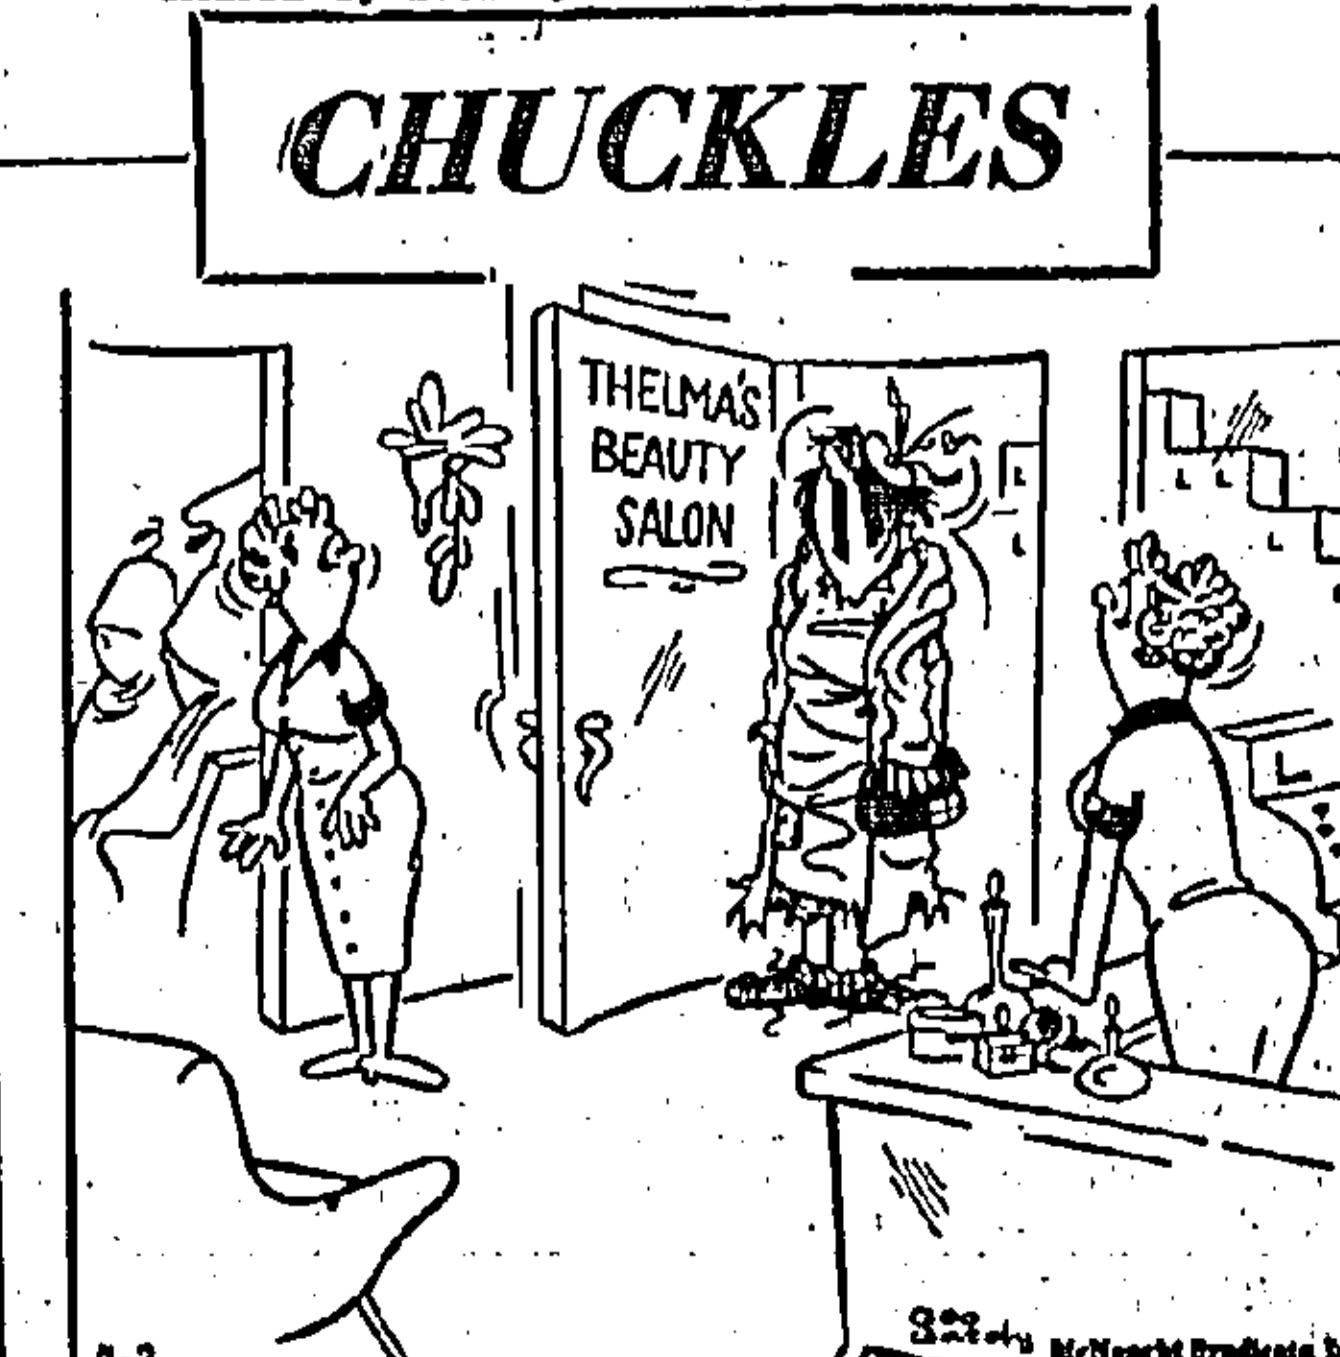

I believe the same could happen with the non-nuclear club—if we push for it too.

—(London Express Service).

BEETLE BACKS AND WASP WAISTS

THE Italian woman, out on an evening spree, is not in fashion if she hasn't got . . . wide, wide shoulders . . . a peg-top skirt . . . a beetle back . . . and a high wasp waist. In fact, she's quite a creature!

Husband-and-wife team who are always in the fashion lead are Fabiani and Simonetta, top designers both, who, strangely—or not strangely—have both decreed much the same line for the women of Italy. And, of course, the Italian stores have been swift to copy their line, beetle back, wasp waist and all.

Simonetta's beetle back (the sleeves seem to come out from under huge folded wings), effective in coat is even more effective in an evening-dress of black paper-silk taffeta trimmed with large black rose.

But the most sensational dress any Italian woman can have in her evening wardrobe has been thought up by Giltzine, also a woman designer: a sheath of white spotted net with a white spotted net with a voluminous frilled overskirt, rather like those frills you find round oaks. And it fastens behind the neck!

Fashions come and fashions go, but Rome forever embroiders, and always popular are the hand-embroidered, very feminine short evening-dresses—and most of the latest evening-dresses are short, no matter how elaborate.

Giltzine proves that white tulie is still romantic for evenings, especially when hand-embroidered and festooned with sequins.

Baratta has chosen white organza mounted on several petticoats. The scalloped hemline is embroidered with diamante, which gives it a "frayed" look. Practically every woman in Rome or Florence has an embroidered evening-dress.

Baratta's white organza has been bought and copied by a leading London manufacturer, so that British women can buy it—fairly inexpensively. But not every woman, British or Italian, can wear it. It is definitely for the very young.

Attention Housewives!

THE more ingenious the gadgets designed to save us work the more strain we put on our hands and our skin.

For example, we make washing clothes and dishes much easier by using machines and by adding one of the modern detergents to the water. The detergent dissolves the dirt and grease all right; unfortunately, it tries to dissolve our hands as well—certainly the natural fats in the skin of the hands.

It soon becomes a race between the over-worked sweat glands and the detergent as to whether or not the hands are kept in decent moist condition or reduced to mummified sorenesses.

Even the increasing use of machinery in industry and commerce, means more hand troubles because so many mechanics are needed to keep the machinery oiled and greased! If the actual grease or oil does no damage to the workers' skin most of the gritty grease-removers are harmful when used over long periods.

SHOULD WEAR GLOVES

In recent years a lot more thought has been given to the protection of hands, both at home and at work. Instead of waiting for patients to develop dermatitis from their work, efforts are made to prevent them getting this most troublesome complaint.

Housewives are rather slow in taking precautions, however. Far more should wear gloves while washing dishes, or before putting their hands into detergent solutions.

It probably won't have such an attractive smell or be sold in a pretty tin or tube, but it will be every bit as good as many proprietary makes—and cheaper.

There are a number of well-known proprietary creams and there is a simple British Pharmacopoeia equivalent which can be bought quite cheaply.

The first kind are used chiefly for a limited number of special chemicals, particularly paints and aldehydes. The other type gives some protection against greases, fats and oils.

WEDDING WOES

THE wary florist goes to the church armed with transparent plastic tape for the bride's veil, sandpaper for the bridesmaids' shoes and a change of clothing for the six-year-old flower girl.

It's the unexpected developments that produce ulcers, said florists attending the 75th annual convention of the Society of American Florists.

The junior member of one wedding party, annoyed by long weeks of preparation for her was dismayed by the five-year-old ringbearer who retreated to a corner at the opening strains of "Here Comes the Bride," and could not be coaxed out.

His courage returned after the party set off without him, and he followed behind on hands and white satin-clad knees, scooping up the flower petals strewn by the flower girl. These he presented to the bride as she reached the altar.

Case Of The Hungry Bird

—Chirpie Sparrow Helps Out A Friend—

By MAX TRELL

KNARF, the Shadow Boy with the Turned About Name, was sitting on the back steps of the house in a spot of winter sunshine when there was a whirling of wings in the air. He looked up to see his friend Chirpie Sparrow standing on the clothesline just over his head.

"Hi, Knarf!" said Chirpie. "Hi there, Chirpie!" said Knarf.

Help A Friend

"I was just wondering," said Chirpie, "whether you could help out a friend of mine. His name's Joe."

"Is he a bird?" asked Knarf. "He's a hungry bird," said Chirpie. "He hasn't had anything to eat since yesterday's breakfast."

"That's a long time," said Knarf.

"He's so hungry," said Chirpie, "that he could eat a bushel of peanuts."

No Peanuts

"I can't get him a bushel of peanuts," said Knarf.

"What can you get him?" asked Chirpie.

"I can get him some bread crumbs," said Knarf.

"That'll do," said Chirpie. "And he flew off to get his friend Joe."

Knarf went into the kitchen. He returned to the back steps a few minutes later with a handful of bread crumbs.

At that moment Chirpie Sparrow came flying up to the clothesline with a large, black-feathered bird.

Chirpie and his hungry friend both nodded to Knarf. Knarf, looking a little surprised at the size of the black-feathered bird, nodded in return.

Joe The Crow

"This is Joe the Crow," said Chirpie. "Joe, meet Knarf! Knarf, meet Joe!"

"Hi, Joe the Crow!" said Knarf.

Thanks for giving Joe the slice of bread," Chirpie said to Knarf.

"He's not very polite," said Knarf.

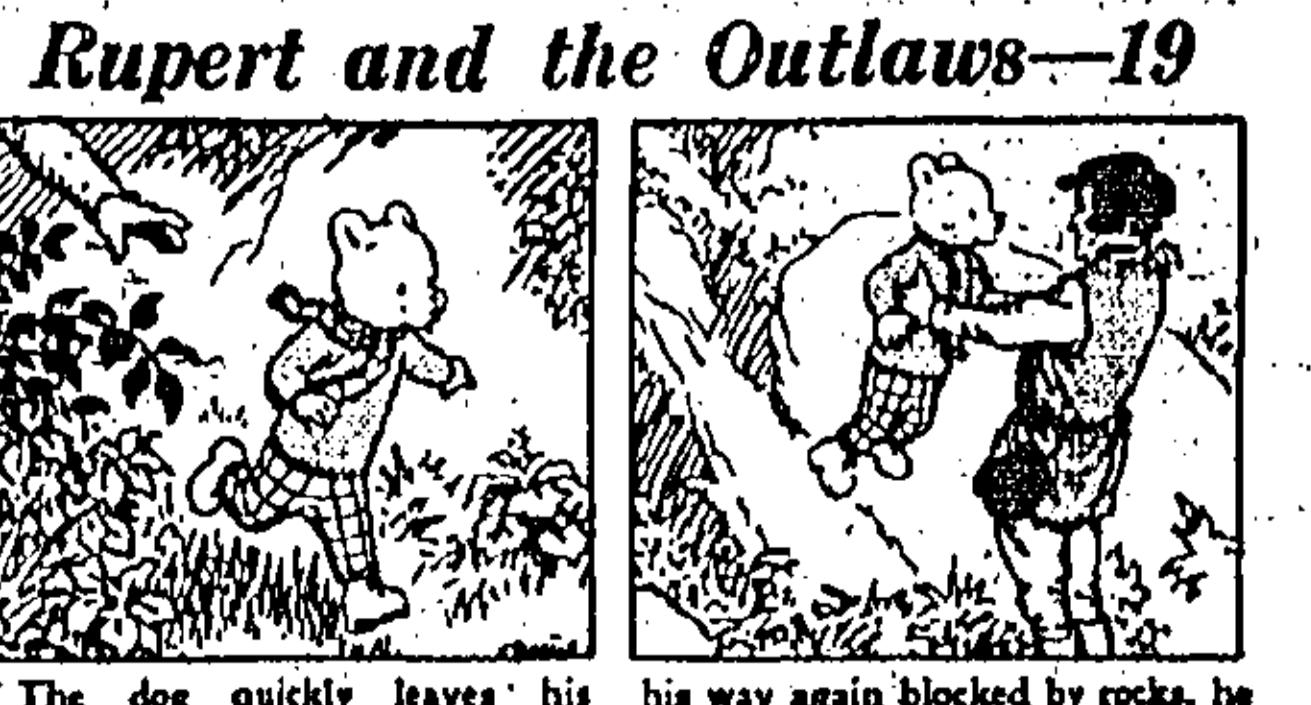

"That's how Joe is," said Chirpie. "When he's hungry, he forgets to be polite. But thanks just the same."

And Chirpie flew off towards the woods.

"Well Joe to give you some crumbs from that slice of bread," Knarf called after him.

But Knarf wondered if Chirpie would get even a crumb.

Joe the Crow looked like a terribly hungry bird.

The dog quickly leaves his way again blocked by rocks, he is soon overtaken. "Oh, it's you once more, it is!" cries the man. "I locked you up but I see it's not safe to leave you alone. Who set you free? Come, we'll go and look."

JACOBY on BRIDGE

EAST's bids of five, six and seven hearts were all good sacrifice bids. Even at seven hearts his partner would only be down four tricks for a 700-point loss and, as East had correctly reasoned, South would have no trouble with either six diamonds or six no-trump.

What East had failed to reason was that South was also cold for seven no-trump and there was no sacrifice available against that bid.

Of course, South did not bid that seven no-trump himself. Also, he did not double seven hearts as many players would. Instead he passed and left matters up to his partner.

This gave North a problem but he had little trouble solving it. North had considered a seven bid over his partner's six diamonds and again over his partner's six no-trump but had refrained from the theory that South had taken command with his Blackwood four no-trump.

When South failed to double seven hearts it was a different story. Obviously, he did not think that West could make it. Hence, he wanted North to go to seven no-trump if he could and with three top spades North was willing.

Interior decorator Jane Derrick offers newly-weds a yardstick by which to choose furniture that can be moved from the first apartment to the larger quarters which the young couple eventually will want.

Mrs Derrick said it's best to consult a professional decorator, who will help a young couple furnish an apartment within a $1,000 budget and guide them to choices that will last. This, she said, is the least expensive and most satisfactory way.

But for the bride who wants to proceed on her own, Mrs. Derrick had these suggestions:

—Stick to the good straight lines of traditional furniture. The design is always good, and "there is a lot of bad design" in modern. "Modernizing" touches can be added in fabrics, pictures and other accessories.

—Buy good wood pieces. Excellent wood will withstand almost unlimited rough treatment and can be refinished and repaired without losing its beauty, while cheap wood will always look like what it is. Upholstered furniture must eventually be recovered, no matter how fine the fabric.

—Avoid "bulky" furniture which looks fine in the show-room but overwhelming in an apartment living room. Small pieces almost always can be transferred to new quarters, but over-scale furniture might dominate the scene.

—Keep the rooms simple, sparsely furnished. They can be brightened with flowers, pictures or greens, "and remember there shouldn't be a room without some place for books."

—Deals in monograms, with only an occasional printed fabric or figured wallpaper for accent.

—In pictures, "it's better to have a good copy than a poor original."

—Consider a portable television set which can be tucked out of sight in a cupboard when not in use.

HONGKONG IN SOCCER FARCE

Colony XI Present Malaya 'Merdeka' Match On A Silver Platter

Kuala Lumpur, Sept. 6. Malaya tonight defeated Hongkong two goals to one after a goal-less first half in the winners' pool of the "Merdeka Soccer Festival" here in what appeared to be a clearly staged managed game.

Hongkong's defeat came in the last minute of the game when Malaya converted a corner-kick awarded to them.

Hongkong, whose superiority was evident throughout, played half-heartedly. Their forwards appeared to be goal-shy and never attempted to net the ball as if they had been told to refrain from scoring.

The Colony team, who are completely out of the running for the championship cup, took things easy and handed the game on a silver platter to Malaya.

The whole match looked like a farce. The game opened at a leisurely pace and dilly-dally the play went on throughout the first half with neither team scoring.

Korea Win Losers' Pool Cup

Korea tonight won the losers' pool cup, defeating Japan three goals to one. Korea led two goals to one at half-time.

The game, played on a rain-soaked ground and at times under a slight drizzle, was watched by 20,000 football fans who had thronged into the federal capital's floodlit "Merdeka" Stadium.

Japan went down fighting but Korea who entered the festival as favourites to win the overall champion ship were deserving winners. Korea opened impressively, scoring in the first minute and then increasing their lead in the seventh minute.

The final goal was scored by right-wing Choi Jung Min who stabbed a wing to wing pass into the Japanese net. Six minutes later inside-right Cho Youn Ok carpet drove Korea's second goal from close range.

Fought Back

Despite these two quick goals, Japan fought back and opened their account in the twelfth minute. The goal came when outside-right Uehino Icaded in a beautiful corner kick sent up by outside-left Watanabe. The game now settled down to tame play, it resumed under heavy drizzle after the interval.

Three minutes after the resumption, Japan was unlucky to miss two quick scoring chances with two shots both by centre-forward Kawahashi missing the goalpost narrowly and hitting the crossbar.

Another Brilliant Motor-Cycling Double By John Surtees

Monza, Sept. 6.

John Surtees, Britain's motor-cycle ace who clinched the world 500 and 350cc championships for the second successive year earlier this season, today completed another brilliant double in the Italian Grand Prix here.

Surtees, riding an Italian MV Augusta, thrilled the crowd as he dashed round the 125-mile track, overtaking other competitors when only one-third of the way through each event.

He averaged 115.22mph for the 125 miles of the senior event and 107.14mph for the 90-mile race.

Italy's Carlo Ubbiali, also on an MV, finished second, confirmed an world champion in the 125cc and took the 250cc title from fellow-Italian Tarquinio Provini.

MV Augustas were awarded the manufacturers' world title in all four events. For the second year running, the Morza event was the year's last qualifying event for the world championships.

The races were marred by a fatal accident. Italian Adolfo Covil died from a fractured skull after crashing into an embankment in the 500cc event.

Malaya Retain 'Merdeka' Cup

Kuala Lumpur, Sept. 6. — Malaya won the "Merdeka" Soccer Festival Cup here today. India was runner-up.

Malaya emerged as the top contender for the cup with one more game between India and Malaya to be decided. If India wins, there is likely to be a replay between India and Malaya who will have the same number of points.

CLOSING CEREMONY

The festival, which opened here last Sunday, ended tonight with a brief ceremony at which Raja Permaisuri Agong, consort of Malaya's head of state, gave away the cups to the winners in the pool.

Tomorrow, Malaya, winners in the championship pool will meet Korea, winners in the losers' pool, in a friendly encounter.

The home team has now won the cup two times out of three since the Festival was started in August 1959.

The last day of the championship was marred by a tragedy when one of the spectators collapsed from exertion and died on the spot.—APW.

Olmedo Extended By Flam In U.S. Tennis Singles Tournament

Forest Hills, Sept. 6.

Top-seeded Alex Olmedo, the lend-lease star from Peru, showed flashes of annoyance with himself and the spectators as he won a hard-fought 7-5, 6-4, 6-8, 6-2 match from veteran Herbie Flam to lead the way into the third round of the U.S. amateur singles tennis championships here today.

Battling to recapture the form which went sour in the recent U.S. less of the Davis Cup to Australia, the swarthy Wimbledon champion, smitten of the stoolie of big India forefathers as he glowered continually and finally shouted at the gallery:

"Will you be quiet please?" His aggravation was heightened by ragged tennis and continued difficulty with his own service as he finally overcame the 31-year-old Flam, one-time "Boy Wonder" from Pasadena, Calif., who was runner-up for the title in 1959.

Meanwhile, Big Barry MacKay, the United States' chief hope against a horde of foreign invaders, accompanied Olmedo into the third round with a 6-2, 6-3, 6-4 victory over veteran Gardner Mulley of Miami.

The 20-year-old Miss Reynolds, who holds the U.S. hard court title, ousted off Barbara Weiszfeld 6-1, 6-3, and the unseeded Mrs. Knodt knocked out Mrs. Harry Hopman, wife of the Australian Davis Cup captain, 6-1, 6-0.

The two British girls came back to win rather easily after hard-fought first sets. The 18-year-old Miss Truman beat Mimi Arnold of the U.S. then Redwood City, Calif., 7-5, 6-1, and the 20-year-old Miss Haydon eliminated Carol Hanks of St. Louis, 8-6, 6-3.

Miss Truman had a brisk battle in the first set against Mimi Arnold of the U.S., then found the range for her victory.

The tall Miss Truman and Miss Arnold both played unimpressively in long exchanges from the baseline in the first set, but Miss Truman finally forced Miss Arnold into errors which cost the American the set.

These included second-ranked Sandra Reynolds of South Africa, third-seeded Christine Truman, the six-foot English teenager, sixth-ranked Ann Haydon of England, and Mrs. Dorothy Knodt of Panama.

Meanwhile, Big Barry MacKay, the United States' chief hope against a horde of foreign invaders, accompanied Olmedo into the third round with a 6-2, 6-3, 6-4 victory over veteran Gardner Mulley of Miami.

The 20-year-old Miss Reynolds, who holds the U.S. hard court title, ousted off Barbara Weiszfeld 6-1, 6-3, and the unseeded Mrs. Knodt knocked out Mrs. Harry Hopman, wife of the Australian Davis Cup captain, 6-1, 6-0.

The two British girls came back to win rather easily after hard-fought first sets. The 18-year-old Miss Truman beat Mimi Arnold of the U.S. then Redwood City, Calif., 7-5, 6-1, and the 20-year-old Miss Haydon eliminated Carol Hanks of St. Louis, 8-6, 6-3.

Miss Truman had a brisk battle in the first set against Mimi Arnold of the U.S., then found the range for her victory.

The tall Miss Truman and Miss Arnold both played unimpressively in long exchanges from the baseline in the first set, but Miss Truman finally forced Miss Arnold into errors which cost the American the set.

Two Bowls Open Titles Decided

GEORGE SOUZA'S FOUR WIN RINKS FINAL

Pereiras Are Pairs Champions For 2nd Time

By ROBERT TAY

Two of the four events in the Colony men's lawn bowls open championships were decided yesterday at the Kowloon Cricket Club before an appreciable large crowd.

Displaying even better form than they did in their last few matches, the Craigengower four of P. Manson, A. M. L. Soares, A. E. Coates and G. A. Souza annexed the rinks title with a 22-17 victory over Recreio's G. Gutierrez, G. A. Noronha, C. P. Basto and C. E. Roza-Pereira in the final.

Coates has already been a title winner in one event or the other in the past, but for the three other members of the winning four—Manson, Souza and Souza—this is their first win ever in the open championships.

In the other final decided yesterday, the Pereira brothers, Connie and Spotty, of Recreio, proved too good for F. D. Angus and W. Williamson of the Kowloon Football Club and W. Williamson of Kowloon Bowling Green Club, winning by 23-18 to win the pairs title for the second time in the history of the competition. They last won it in 1955.

Tame Ending

Yesterday's finals gave this year's rinks and pair competitors some tame endings. The winners in both events left from the start to the finish, with the losers unable to reproduce any semblance of the form that had brought them up to that stage.

In the rinks final, George Souza's Craigengower four, after conceding a single on the first head took a single and three to lead by 4-1.

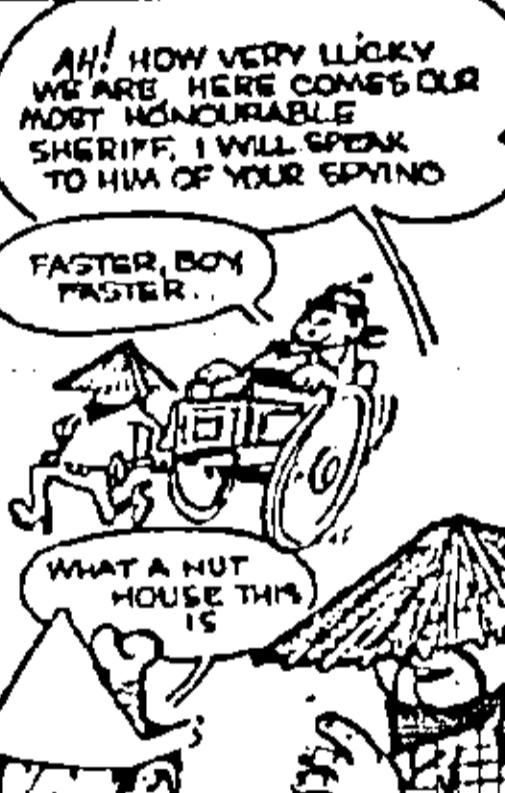

On the fourth head they dealt their opponents a blow from which they never recovered. Two excellent shots by Alfred Coates—one run-up and one drawn shot—had the foundation of a well-taken six.

RUSSIA BEAT BRITAIN IN ATHLETICS MATCH

Moscow, Sept. 6.

The Soviet Union beat Britain by 205 points to 136 in the combined scoring for the men's and women's two-day international athletics match ending here today.

Russia won the men's events by 129 points to 95 and the women's 76 to 41.

Russia scored the meeting as one match, while Britain treated the men's and women's events as separate matches.

The Russians won 15 of the 21 men's events and nine of 11 women's events.

Brilliant Doubles

Brilliant doubles by Brian Hewson in the 800 and 1,500 metres and Mary Bignal, who scored the British women's only successes in the long jump and 80 metres hurdles, provided Britain with some consolation for their crushing defeat.

Discus

1. Grigalashvili (Soviet Union) 53.78 metres.
2. Metzger (Soviet Union) 53.33.
3. M. Lindsay (Britain) 51.59.
4. E. Cleaver (Britain) 49.20.
1. Brian 3 miles 10.1 secs.
2. Soviet Union 3 miles 13 secs.

WOMEN

80-Metre Hurdle
1. M. Bignal (Britain) 11 secs.
2. Press (Soviet Union) 11 secs.
3. Kosheleva (Soviet Union) 11.1 secs.
4. Quinton (Britain) fell and did not complete the course, 200 Metres

Dominated

As expected the Russians dominated the field events, but their string of successes would almost certainly have been halted if European champion shot putter Arthur Rowe had been available for Britain.

Aldofis Varanuskas won the event with a Russian national record of 17.98 metres (59 ft 10 1/4 in)—an effort well beyond Rowe's European best mark of 16.59 metres (51 feet).—Reuter.

Three W. Indies Cricketers In Car Collision

Darlaston, Sept. 6.

Three West Indian cricketers were taken to hospital this morning after their car had been in a head-on collision with a ten-ton cattle wagon on the main London road here.

They were Garfield Sobers, Collie Smith, and Tom Dewdney.

Dewdney was the most seriously hurt, sustaining face injuries and a suspected fracture of the skull.

Smith had back injuries while Sobers, who was driving, escaped with cuts and bruises. They were taken to the North Staffs Royal Infirmary at Stoke-on-Trent.

The driver of the cattle wagon was uninjured.—UPI.

PEOPLE IN THE NEWS

Will He Be The First Spaceman? Veteran Pilot Set For The Great Adventure

The German-born American rocket expert Dr Werner Von Braun declared on September 4 that the United States planned to attempt shooting a man into space next year. If the attempt is successful, Scott Crossfield, the subject of the following story, could be the first man into space.

Hundreds of millions of years ago earth's living creatures crawled from the dark haven of the oceans into a new element of hostile air and burning sun.

Today, man stands impotently in a new frontier. Beyond lies an element, unfriendly, unknown and seemingly infinite. We call it space.

From the bounded environment in which he has lived so long man has regarded the vast emptiness of space as a challenge to his mind or mystery and to his adaptability.

Our resources and our theories tell us that its vacuum kills the soft-bodied human in a trice, that its radiation, its extreme heat and cold are as quickly fatal.

DARING

But man has his daring and his intellect. He knows that his body need undergo no change. He will ascend in a metal bubble which will simulate the conditions of his own environment.

This Great Adventure is fast approaching. And because it falls only within the technical and financial resources of the earth's greatest nations, it has developed into a contest.

Americans who will contest a slight, aquiline-faced father of five children will be the first man in space.

His name is Scott Crossfield.

SCOTT CROSSFIELD

Scott Crossfield, 38—"I'm just a working man"—is a slightly-built Californian with cropped dark hair, piercing black eyes and a laconic outlook.

RARE COMBINATION

He is a low-key intellectual who likes tweed coats and mohair, drinks little, smokes less, has a ranch-type house in Los Angeles, a pretty wife named Alice and five children ranging from baby Sally to Becky, aged nine. He hates the words "adventure," "space man" as applied to him and says he doesn't know what wife feels about his work because he has never asked her. However it is a rule that aviation "doesn't come into our home."

Crossfield is that rare combination—a veteran test pilot (in fact, America's No. 1) and a Master of Science. During World War II he was a fighter pilot and a Navy flight instructor. In 1953 he won the famed title of World's Fastest Man after taking the Douglas Skyrocket to 1,320 miles an hour. Two years later he joined North American Aviation as a design specialist and engineering test pilot at the time that the company was given the X-15 contract. He has been their key man in the project ever since.

Yet for all his attainments and the blaze of publicity that bathes his every moment in embarrassing light, Crossfield is essentially modest. "If you want to do big things," he says seriously, "you must accept the risk." And then he adds, "I can tell you that this is just another job. I don't lose any sleep over it. I don't even think the trip particularly adventurous."

Crossfield could be convincing—if many of the facts about his flight were unknown. What is known is that every second of the X-15's epic flight will present deadly danger, despite careful protection within the X-15's super air-conditioning, special insulating paint, a five-layer aluminum-padded pressure suit which he designed himself, and an automatic escape ejection which at the right barometric pressure will—it is hoped—release a parachute and float him to earth.

Hongkong Textile Men To Attend Milan Exhibition

THE Third International Textile Machinery and Accessories Exhibition to be held in Milan, Italy, will be attended by many of the prominent leaders of the Hongkong textile industry.

The purpose of the exhibition is to introduce and to promote the latest and best methods of production of textile machinery and equipment to textile manufacturers all over the world.

This exhibition which is held every four years in a different city, is of special interest this year to members of the textile community in Hongkong because of the rapid expansion of the textile mills in this area.

The exhibits will include the most modern machine developments and it will cover an area of 30,000 sqm. Spinning, Weaving, Dyeing, Finishing, Knitting and Sewing machinery will be exhibited by European, English and American machinery makers.

The attendance forecast indicates that all previous records will be broken and representatives of the textile industries from 60 countries will attend.

REPRESENTATIVES

Mr Leo Flilla, Managing Director of Ceco International (HK) Ltd., Hongkong, representatives for the exhibition, announces that representatives of the following Hongkong Mills will attend: South Sea Textile Mfg. Co. Ltd., Nanyang Cotton Mill Ltd., Hongkong Spinnery Ltd., South Textiles Ltd., South China Textiles Ltd., Eastern Cotton Mills Ltd., and Overseas Textiles Ltd.

The exhibition which will be opened by the President of the Republic of Italy, Giovanni Gronchi, will take place from the 12th to the 21st Sept., 1959.

Free visas to Italy are available to those holding invitations to the exhibition and special railroad rates are available to visitors. Visitors' cards are obtainable at Ceco International (HK) Ltd.

ATTENDANCE COMPUTER

An unusual facility was provided by a London computer firm's punched card system at the recent British Trade Fair in Lisbon, where complimentary tickets in the form of 40-column cards were issued beforehand to exhibitors.

In all, the company prepared 20,000 cards covering 131 exhibitors, and each card was punched with the exhibitor's Fair number. Of the 20,000 issued, 9,000 were returned. After they had been mechanically counted, lists of the totals and of the exhibitors' names were passed to British Overseas Fairs Limited. Each exhibitor was thus informed of the number of visitors who attended the Fair with complimentary tickets issued by him.

This facility has now been provided by the London firm at three British Overseas Fairs—Copenhagen, Helsinki and Lisbon, and it is hoped to repeat it at the British Trade Fair to be held in New York next year. (I.C.T. Ltd., Gloucester House, 149, Park Lane, London, W.I.)

Explosion Alarm

A SYSTEM which is said to be able to sound an alarm just before the occurrence of certain types of explosion has been developed in Sweden.

Experimental tests which have been carried out with the unit have shown that it is capable of sensing the rapid rise in pressure which occurs at the start of an explosion.

The instrument is equipped with a platinum wire also carrying an electric current, whose resistance is altered when explosive gases reach it. The occurrence of such changes in the case of pressure changes automatically activates the alarm. Developed by Salen and Wienander, Sylmepagatan, 4, Stockholm, Sweden.

Television In Steel Mills

AN installation of 15 closed-circuit television channels has been completed in the new rolling mill at Port Talbot, Wales, of the Steel Company of Wales.

Working continuously, day and night, the equipment helps to speed output by providing the facility of remote observation. The installation is an unusual one, not only on account of its complexity, but in the disposition of the cameras. These are mounted in fixed units on the outside walls of the rolling mill, looking inwards and downwards at an angle at a tall track. Each camera is fitted with a special wide-angle lens and surveys some 45 feet (13.7 metres) of track.

The separate camera outputs are fed to an adjacent building and thence to a "pupil" in the rolling mill, where the pictures are displayed on fifteen monitors. By this means an operator in the pupil is provided with a close-up, sympathetic view of the 700-foot (213.5 metres) of track, the far end of which is some 1,000 feet (304.8 metres) away from him in terms of physical distance. This facility, in brief, enables him to control two electrically-driven buggies which travel in opposite directions on the common track and which have to be brought to a halt in contact but without collision.

The installation, which was made by Marconi's Wireless Telegraph Company Ltd., of Chelmsford, Essex, England, posed several problems, notably the amount of natural light available in the areas and the high ambient temperatures (over 160 degrees Fahrenheit) which at times occur, but these were successfully overcome by the Marconi engineers and those of the Steel Company of Wales who worked in close collaboration.

As the steel mill is operating to capacity on a 24-hour basis, the television equipments are likewise in continuous round-the-clock use.

Refuelling Aircraft At Speed

A MODEL of a new type of 50-ton fuelling vehicle being put into service to quicken the turn-round of Transatlantic jet airliners will be on display at the Shell-Mex stand at Farnborough Air Show in September. (7th-13th).

This articulated vehicle with a capacity of 10,000 gallons is capable of delivering fuel to an aircraft at the rate of 700 gallons a minute. It is 50 feet long, 8 feet wide and 11 feet high. The makers say it was introduced to satisfy the higher capacity and quicker pumping performance required by inter-continental jet airliners. Two of these fuelers, one at each wing of an airliner, can deliver fuel simultaneously.

Mobile Radio Masts

RADIO masts made from triangular aluminium sections and suitable for carrying equipment at heights up to 200 feet are being produced by a British company.

The masts have been designed for speed of transport and easy erection and dismantling. Each section is fitted to the next by means of interlocking clips which locate with holes in the spigots of the vertical members and no small loose parts such as nuts or bolts are required.

A five-man team is capable of erecting a 130-foot mast in about four hours after the base has been prepared.

For storage purposes the mast can be completely stripped down to the largest 7 feet 6-inch diameter lengths of tube.

The lighter money meant among many other things that it was becoming more difficult to build or buy homes. As a

INCREASE IN MONEY RATES

Traders Hard Hit By Tight Money Policy

The money markets pushed the stool strike off the centre stage of attention in the U.S. economic picture last week as the cost of borrowing surged to highs unseen since the early thirties.

Business borrowing costs surged upward at mid-month along a front from the First National City Bank of New York touched off the new development by raising the prime rate from 4½ to 5 per cent—the highest since 1931. Other leading banks followed suit. Commercial paper dealers then raised their rate on unsecured promissory notes sold in the open market by another ¼ percentage point—the second such raise in two days. Consumers ran up record mortgage debts, savings and loan associations reported their loans to home-builders this year totalled nearly $7.7 billion—45 per cent more than in the first half of 1958.

Stiff Rise

As a result of these moves, the Federal Reserve discontinued its U.S. prime rate market, the U.S. Treasury revealed the loss of another $75 million in U.S. gold reserves to foreign purchases—presumed to be British or continental European.

The latest loss in U.S. gold took place before the money rate went up, making investment in this market more attractive to foreigners. The total U.S. withdrawals of gold from its reserves as of last year stood at $1,075,000,000.

The total gold stock balance in the United States now is $19,524,000,000. Observers agreed further losses are likely in view of America's worsening balance of international payments position.

result, private residential building which played a major role in the recovery of 1959 and 1960 is showing down. Official statistics so far indicate only a tapering off but all signs point to a sharper reduction by the end of the year. Builders estimate now that housing starts throughout the U.S. will now indicate for the year 1960. Again, as in other fields, consumers ran up record mortgage debts, savings and loan associations reported their loans to home-builders this year totalled nearly $7.7 billion—45 per cent more than in the first half of 1958.

Gold Reserves

While repercussions from the Federal Reserve's discontinuation of its prime rate market, the U.S. Treasury revealed the loss of another $75 million in U.S. gold reserves to foreign purchases—presumed to be British or continental European.

The latest loss in U.S. gold took place before the money rate went up, making investment in this market more attractive to foreigners. The total U.S. withdrawals of gold from its reserves as of last year stood at $1,075,000,000.

The total gold stock balance in the United States now is $19,524,000,000. Observers agreed further losses are likely in view of America's worsening balance of international payments position.

The U.S. stool strike, now in its eighth week, was bound to become the nation's longest postwar stool walk-out. And there was no sign of a settle-

Warning

In fact, the strike was now entering its critical phase with September 15 generally considered the deadline when it will really begin to hurt. The government warned that serious shortages of steel may develop in the next two weeks and layoffs will resume. The present number of workers laid off as a result of the strike is now put at 120,000 in mining, railroading and other affiliated fields in addition to the 500,000 idle steel workers.

Steel stocks are adequate at present level for about two more weeks, the government said in a report, but growing and possibly serious shortages are anticipated later this month. Already, it said, steel wholesalers were reported unable to supply steel wire and other specialties were the Kansas City, Cleveland, Los Angeles and Bessemer areas.

As Detroit embarked on 1960 model production last week, some experts warned the car industry may not be able to sustain peak operations in the fourth quarter even should the stool strike be settled by mid-September.—UPI.

New York Cotton Market

New York, Sept. 6.

The cotton market continued dull this past week as trading stimuli again were lacking.

At Friday's close the 1st ruling five points higher to 24 points lower 25 cents a bale higher to $1.20 lower than the previous week.

Operations were mostly professional and routine. Speculative interest continued to be stifled by a variety of overhanging uncertainties including cotton legislation and the coming Government crop report next Tuesday.

One Memphis firm estimated the crop as of September 1 at 14,000,000 bales. This compared with the previous Government estimate of 14,015,000 bales, and last year's crop of 11,512,000 bales.

SHORT COVERING

Steadiness in the old crop delivered throughout the week reflected short covering induced by substantial cuts in certificates of cotton stocks. As of Friday afternoon, certificates totalled 3,039 bales, down 034 bales from the posting a week earlier.

The Government's weekly crop report, as anticipated, said harvesting was hampered by rains in the eastern portion of Texas and Oklahoma. Otherwise, the crop picture was favourable, with harvesting progressing smoothly.—UPI.

Higher Money Rates Weaken N.Y. Market

New York, Sept. 6.

Higher money rates, actual and expected, gave the stock market two shocks during the past week—one on Tuesday when the industrials fell 8.51 points and again on Thursday with a 9.90 point loss.

A small gain on Monday, a do-nothing market Wednesday, and a substantial recovery on Friday rounded out a dull week.

At the close on Friday, the market showed a paper loss for the week of $5,225,000,000.

Dentist Fined For Looting

A 50-year-old dentist who admitted going into a collapsed house in Wan Chai and stealing 57 tools, was fined $10 or eight weeks by Mr T. L. Yang at Central Magistracy this morning.

Tsang Hon-ying, of 100 Johnston Road, was also ordered to pay $10 for six tools which could not be recovered or a further detention of 10 days.

Inspector T. Y. Yip, prosecuting, said complainant Wong Chuen-sun, lived in 200 Johnston Road, first floor, and had been advised by the police to evacuate.

On September 2, all the people were allowed to enter the premises to take away their belongings and Wong discovered the loss of the tools, worth about $100.

Defendant admitted to the police he had taken them and sold them to a marine hawker for $25.

MANNEQUIN SCHOOL IN HONGKONG

A Singapore model plans shortly to start a mannequin training school in Hongkong.

She is Miss Ruth Warner, who is already operating model academies in Kuala Lumpur and Singapore and who claims to have trained "several hundred local girls."

Miss Warner is a London-trained model. She is looking for a trained fashion model to conduct classes in Hongkong.

A 19-year-old widow in the Victoria District Court today claimed workers compensation for her husband who was allegedly killed by a falling wall on a building demolition site.

60-year-old Now A 'Dangerous Structure'

The Yu Fung Co. Ltd. applied to the tenancy tribunal this morning for exemption for a sixty-year-old house at 6 Shallow Street, for which a dangerous structure notice was served on them by the P.W.D. recently.

The house has a woodworking shop on the ground floor and domestic units above.

The applicant proposed building a modern five-storey reinforced concrete house on the site which would cost $101,250. It would have two shops on the ground floor and domestic flats, two on each floor, each with bathroom and kitchen.

The building would be finished in 5½ months.

Applicants are represented by Mr V. Gittins, instructed by Mr A. Liu of Lo and Lo and there are 48 opponents of the application, represented by Mr A. M. Gammie, instructed by Peter Wong & Co. and Mr B. Liu instructed by K. F. Wong & Co. and Hastings & Co.

Members of the tribunal are Mr J. E. Dargan (president), Mr Lau Mon-lam and Mr F. Mody. They inspected the premises this morning, after which hearing will continue.

WOMAN ENCOURAGED DAUGHTER TO STEAL

Mr T. L. Yang this morning at Central Magistracy reprimanded a 41-year-old housewife, Wong Ying, for encouraging her 12-year-old daughter to steal, when she admitted receiving a stolen watch from the daughter.

Defendant was sentenced to six weeks imprisonment by Mr Yang, while the 12-year-old girl was cautioned on admitting the theft of the watch when she appeared before Mr I. T. Morris at Juvenile Court this morning.

The theft was discovered by the owner of the watch, Chan Kit-yu, of 1 Tin Hau Temple Road, who told the police that the 12-year-old girl, who was a bean curd hawker, had called on her on August 29.

The girl was traced to defendant's home where the watch was found in her possession.

Bargains At 50 Cents Each

Outfits for the whole family, some garments costing only 50 cents each, were sold at the Homeless Sale in aid of the Society for the Protection of Children which opened this morning.

Shoppers were busily sorting out bargains immediately after the sale started at noon today in St George's Hall, Missions to Seamen on the Gloucester Road. The doors remain open until 6.30 this evening.

The sale will continue tomorrow and on Wednesday from 10 a.m. until 6 p.m.; fresh stocks of garments will be set out each day.

Ladies of the Women's Auxiliary of the HKSPC were in charge of the proceedings. Mrs F. H. Loeby, Hon. Treasurer, was checking sales and receiving cash, with Mrs E. L. Eliza and Mrs V. Picciotto and other helpers.

This is one of the Auxiliary's annual charity efforts to raise funds for the poorest babies in the Colony cared for in the SPC centres and clinics in Hongkong and Kowloon.

PICTORIAL PARADE

RIGHT: She isn't really Miss Great Britain. She wasn't really competing in the contest for the title, held recently in Morecambe. In fact she is Shirley Ann Field, who recently was unexpectedly chosen for the starring role opposite Sir Laurence Olivier in the film version of John Osborne's "The Entertainer." The part called for her to be elected Miss Great Britain after going out with one of the organisers, and the girls in the contest were all to get parts as extras. But the girls—and the organisers ABOVE: Just six months ago, the plane bringing Turkish Prime Minister Adnan Menderes to London for the conference on Cyprus crashed in a field near Gatwick Airport, killing most of the passengers and crew. But the premier escaped—largely due to the help and first aid given him by farmer Anthony Bailey and his wife, first people to get to the scene of the crash. Now the Baileys are holidaying—at Menderes' invitation and expense—in Turkey. The Baileys and their two children are shown in Istanbul, with the famous Sultan Ahmed Mosque in the background. Left and right are guides/interpreters placed by the government at the Baileys' disposal.—Express Photo.

ABOVE: John Hoskins, 36-year-old sculptor master at Bath Academy of Art has carved a 20ft high iron figure of Christ. It is claimed to be the biggest in the world. Hoskins built it in a barn at his home in the Cotswolds. Because of lack of space he strapped its 30ft by 12ft ornamental reredos of panelled steel and piping to an outside wall of his cottage. Soon the ultra-modern and revolutionary pieces of art will be erected behind the altar of newly built St Stephen's Church, Southmead, Bristol. Picture shows John Hoskins in his barn. The 20ft figure of Christ is bolted to the wall.—Express Photo.

Not officially sponsored by the Festival authorities, the revue is one of many "fringe" shows presented to coincide with the more serious entertainment of the Festival.—Express Photo.
